Shelby Rogers: "I wish social media didn't exist"

Sep 7,2021

American tennis player Shelby Rogers said she was expecting to receive "nine million death threats" on social media following her fourth round US Open defeat to Great Britain's Emma Raducanu.

"I wish social media didn't exist," Rogers said.

Naomi Osaka was the most abused player on Twitter last year

Jan21.2022

A recent study shows that Japanese tennis player Naomi Osaka received the highest number of abusive messages last year.

Tennis star Naomi Osaka said Friday she will temporarily cut out certain social media apps after an early exit from the Australian Open, her first major competition since taking a mental health break last year. "I probably won't redownload it for a couple of weeks," the four-time Grand-Slam champion told reporters following the match.

Write a passage about social media abuse targeting professional athletes. What are the potential reasons for this phenomenon? If you were one of the abused athletes, how would you feel and react to abusive messages?
